Full Biography

Pt1. From cover to cover

The band was initially a spinoff from StephMetal - a Swedish cover band that had existed for many years featuring Stefan Blomqvist (vocals, guitar), Jan Emanuelsson (bass), Robert Karaszi (drums), Birger Lundgren (guitar) and Robert Wirensjö (keyboards). Stephmetal won the Swedish "Company of rock" in 2009 and gigged frequently both in Sweden and abroad (UK, Fr, Ne and No) during the 2000's.

The dream of making an album with their own material had often been discussed during the time of Stephmetal. Blomqvist had for years written material partially tested both live and in the rehearsal room, and subsequently felt that now was the time to make this dream of an album become reality. With Wirensjö's connections in the music industry a new story began..

The recording project was named BLACK PAISLEY, after Bon Jovi's Ritchie Sambora's classic Fender signature guitar from 1987.

In autumn of 2014 the recordings started outside Sundsvall with producer Johan Dereborn (former Takida, Gaston, E-type), where the band recorded the backgrounds live and also mixed the songs "Autumn" and "Kickin" during a couple cold November weekends. During the Sundsvall sessions guitarist Ulf Hedin came onboard – likewise an experienced musician and songwriter. Ulf was to become a central musical engine in the BLACK PAISLEY project onwards. The friendly and talented drummer Mikael Kerslow, also guested in an honorable way in Sundsvall and was later to become a full member on the second album.

In spring of 2015 the band continued recording "It ain't over" and "This Is My Day" in Stockholm, at Mikael Wikman's fine drum studio (used by Rammstein and others).

In autumn of the same year, they decided to put more efforts into the project and came in contact with Mats "Limpan" Lindfors (John Norum, Talisman, Meshuggah) who now took over the lead of the project, both recording, mixing and production together with Robert Wirensjö. The rest of the songs were recorded at the prestigious Sound Trade Studios in Solna, where bands like Abba, Europe, and Michael Bolton recorded. Final mastering was done at Cutting Room Stockholm, again by Mats Lindfors.

Album Discography

LATE BLOOMER - 2017

The debut Late Bloomer was a musical combination of Classic Rock, AOR and Modern Country. The album consists of nine songs with a spread from heavy rockers as “Run Run Run” and “Ordinary Day”, via more melodic radio tunes like “Way To Something” and “Coming Home” but also touches the southern rock influences with “It Ain’t Over” and “Easy”.

The album was released in 2017 and was build up with a new single release each Friday in 9 weeks before the album release. As of October 2020, the first single “Run Run Run” has been streamed 1,3 million times on Spotify.

The story behind the name of the album is a quibble on the late debut of the band and the nickname of singer Blomqvist (Bloomer).

Stefan Blomqvist – Lead Vocals & Guitar

Jan Emanuelsson – Bass

Ulf Hedin - Lead Guitar & Backing Vocals

Robban Wirensjö – Keyboard & Backing Vocals

Pt2. In bloom

Peppered by the success of the debut, the band started the work on the second album Perennials directly. Blomqvist had more songs ready and the band also co-wrote some new song for the album.

Again the creation of the album went through stages with different contributors.

The first 4 songs were recorded at Soundtrade again, this time with engineer Anders Pantzer and later mixed by legendary producer and Grammy winner Nicklas Flyckt (Britney Spears, Robyn). The single Step Back was picked by Spotify’s editors on the Rock Hard playlist.

Later the project moved into Ulf Hedin’s homestudio and with the help of Pelle Andersson (ex Roxette) who had produced Johnossi’s first album the rest of the songs were recorded and mixed. Andersson was later also going to start the side pop-project “Kurbitz” with Blomqvist.

The final mastering was made by Finnish friend Svante Forsbäck (Rammstein, Volbeat) who had worked with Flyckt before.

The artwork “Seed” is painted by British artist Tom Bagshaw, and shows the growing babyskull introduced on the debut cover.

The release gig of Perennials was at legendary Kägelbanan in Stocholm with Alien as special guests.

In the fall of 2019 and spring of 2020 four songs (Dreams, All The Way To Heaven, Woman I Know and Need Some Soul) were recorded, and mixed by Ulf Hedin and released meaning to be the start of the third album, working title “Shamrock”.

But line-up changes came in between, and the band reformed in the summer of 2020.

RAMBLER – 2020

Pt3. The Ramblers

In the beginning of 2020 Black Paisley's manager Eric Sandström introduced his friend Franco Santunione to Blomqvist for another side-project and a new constellation including Blomqvist, Emanuelsson and founding drummer Robert Karaszi started to rehearse and write new material.

In the summer of 2020 this emerged into the new Black Paisley line-up as Franco decided to leave Electric Boys and go full-time with Black Paisley.

The former Paisley members (Hedin, Wirensjö and Kerslow) went off to create a new rock-project called Whale Dog.

At this point the band made a decision to steer in on a little different direction musically, introducing a riffier sound and more uptempo songs, without abandoning the catchy melodies that have become one of Black Paisley's hallmarks

The reformed Paisley rehearsed and recorded all summer at Franco's old friend Martin Karlegård studio (from 90's band Reptile Smile).

Karlegård also played a part in the songmaking and vocal arrangements as well as doing all backing vocals along with Franco.

The new album consists of 8 brand new tracks, this time back to the basic rock setup with 2 guitars and no keyboards.

The artwork "The Rambler" is made by digital artist Tanbeed Amin and visualizes a growing spine in copper surrounded by rambling roses, describing the band evolution.

Lineup on Rambler

Franco Santunione – Lead Guitar & Backing Vocals

Jan Emanuelsson – Bass

Robert Karaszi – Drums & Percussion
